WEST SPRINGFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS, December 16, 1868. DEAR SIR: It is not my habit to intrude my opinions upon public men. In the present instance, however, I am impelled by the fact of the knowledge I have of the subject-matter in view, the thought I have given it, the different conclusions I have reached from that of most of my friends, and its vast importance. I refer to the ques-tion of the reconstruction of the State of Mississippi as it is now presented before the reconstruction committee Orleans and Mobile Railroad of the House of Representatives in Congress. I was an officer of the constitutional
